1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the theoretical aspects of the problem. It is shown that the problem is equivalent to a problem in the theory of differential equations. The main result of this part is the theorem that the problem has a unique solution.
2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the practical aspects of the problem. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of finite differences.
The results of the calculations are presented in the table below.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the theoretical aspects of the problem. It is shown that the
the theorem that the problem is solvable if and only if the following conditions are satisfied: (1) the function is continuous; (2) the function is bounded; (3) the function is differentiable; (4) the function is satisfies the boundary conditions. The proof of this theorem is given in the next part of the paper.
